

FIRST STREET PROPOSAL BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL

Commissioners to Investigate Proposal to Widen Street North of Track and Also Look Into McDougall and Second Case

The early sessions of the present council, as the members themselves will admit, were star-gangled, gab-fests in which as the Chinaman says, "Talker, talker, all time" was the order of business, and legislation took a secondary place to oratory.

Recently the spirit of the corporate administration has been changing and while there is still a large amount of deliberative oratory, the big talk and the elongated interjection is getting into disrepute with the aldermanic idea and the wise saw that "business is business" is becoming more and more the rule of action. The last two meetings have been characterized by the accomplishment of more business and the disposal of more questions than any other meetings since the term began—and without less unnecessary talk.

That the city council has plenty of large and important business to look after might have been apparent to anyone who stayed through at last night's meeting. There was Block 16, the First street scheme, the telephone franchise in Strathcona, the isolation hospital, the street numbering, the improvement of the telephone service, the electric light surplus, the re-numbering of Jasper, and, last, but by no means least of all, a little heart to heart talk among the aldermen on the railway situation which, while not for publication, was portentous of large results to the city.

For the first time in the history of the municipal year, the council was doing business on the call of time and another record was broken when the council adjourned before an extension of time was necessary. In the interval two delegations were heard quite extensively, the First street committee and the medical association men.

The first matter to engage the attention of the council was the disposal of the section of Block 16, north of the C. N. R. track, between Clark and Griesbach streets, for which the city had a proposal from the projectors' laundry. The engineer reported that the lots would serve excellently the purpose of a city warehouse, that the C. N. R. had promised a sidetrack. Acting on his advice, Ald. Latta moved and Ald. Griesbach seconded that the property be set aside for a city warehouse, which was carried.

Ald. Griesbach moved, and Ald. Smith seconded that the city's property in Block 16 south of the track be not offered for sale. The motion carried, the mayor pointing out that the city would shortly need market sites, and other sites for which this property would undoubtedly become necessary.

Following this came the First street delegation. The petition was read, setting forth that the signers, including the owners of all the property from the Jasper lane to the C. N. R. except for 350 feet unrepresented, wanted the street widened as a local improvement, the sidewalk torn up and rebuilt and all the buildings bulging on the street moved back 20 feet.

Mr. Crysal, who has taken an active part in the matter, was spokesman for the delegation. He pointed out the enormous importance in the future of having First st. a thoroughfare broad enough to accommodate the traffic which will undoubtedly flow through this main artery of the city at some not very distant date, and affirmed that as the property-owners were the parties who were asking for it, and who would be called on to do the paying for half of it and at the same time had offered to sacrifice 20 feet off their lots at a very low figure for the purpose of seeing it through, the city council should have no objection to taking the matter up at once.

Mr. Webster also spoke, pointing out that when the city had a double-track street car line operating on First that the present thoroughfare of 80 feet with 14 ft. of it occupied by street railway and 26 occupied by sidewalks would be likely to become congested by the traffic which will undoubtedly flow through it. He reminded the aldermen that they were laying the foundation of a large city and enjoined them to regard this not as a matter for the present but a proposition for the future to lay down lines of municipal improvement such that their grandchildren would not laugh at them in days to come.

Alderman Picard asked if McDougall & Second were in favor of widening the street at their store.

Mr. Crysal said that they were not in the petition; Mr. McDougall was in favor of the proposition but that he was not present in the city.

Ald. Bellamy asked what kind of a position would the city be in if McDougall & Second refused to be a party to the widening of the street.

TROOPS SHOT TWO MINERS

Striker Fires on Indiana Constabulary and Police Reply with a Volley

Indianapolis, June 9.—This new mining town of Ernest five miles from here was the scene this morning of a conflict which resulted in the death of two miners and the wounding of six more. Striking miners from Jefferson county were marching behind a banner when they met troops of the State constabulary. A miner fired a pistol and the shot was answered by a volley from the constabulary. The injured were moved to the hospital.

Noted Desperado from Across the Vernon, B. C., June 9.—Another notorious desperado from the United States has been found in British Columbia. The latest is the hugely feared American half breed Poone Flynn, who was captured south of Penicton on the trail leading to the land of the free on Friday. He had a magnificent racehorse in his possession owned by B. Basil, of Vernon, an animal which had won several first prizes last year.

Railway Builders Killed and Injured Near Fort William

Fort William, June 8.—Two men were killed and others seriously injured in a rockslide which occurred today near Kaminitiquia, twenty-five miles west of here. The names of the men killed are unknown in Fort William and details of the accident are meagre. Both were foreigners engaged in construction work for Foley Bros. & Larson.

HOUSE MAY PROROGUE SOON

Opposition Want Arctic Inquiry Postponed—Evidence All in Regarding Trading Co.

Ottawa, June 8.—The enquiry into the supplies for the Arctic has practically petered out. The opposition ask that the enquiry be postponed until Wednesday next. So far the Liberals have been pushing the affair. Today Commander Wood's was examined and testified that the quantity of supplies was not too generous, the quality was good and if there were not liquor on board he would not have undertaken the trip. Tied up on board a boat was different from a trip overland. Evidence on the North Atlantic Trading Company's vessel today. The whole evidence was reported to the House. There are signs that prorogation is not far distant.

SIGNS OF A REVOLT

Workmen Being Armed and Trained for a Conflict

Moscow, June 8.—There is a noticeable increase in revolution activity here and it is evident the leaders are preparing to take advantage of the first opportunity to start a revolt. Workmen of factories and mills are being armed with Mauser rifles and drilled under supervision of army reserve soldiers. In spite of repressive measures adopted by the authorities revolutionary meetings are held nightly. The leaders seem confident that the moral of the Government troops is undermined as they have received from some regiments promises to support them in the event of a conflict.

St. Petersburg, June 9.—In certain sections the peasants are burning property indiscriminately. In some provinces peasants are engaged almost daily in conflict with Cossacks and Cossacks are burning property freely because of attacks on them.

HAMILTON HAS A TORNADO

Trees Torn Up and Houses Unroofed in Ontario City

Hamilton, Ont., June 8.—A tornado hit this city late this afternoon and did $100,000 damage. Trees were uprooted, many houses unroofed and a saliball containing twenty persons is reported missing.

OREGON ELECTIONS.
Portland, Ore., June 6.—The election returns of the state are still so incomplete as to make impossible a definite statement of the result of yesterday's elections, but indications point to the re-election of Governor Geo. E. Chamberlain, Democrat, over Dr. Joe Withcombe, the nominee of the Republican party.

For United States senator, Joseph Bourne, Republican, has a good lead over Senator John Gertr. Democratic. In the race for representative from the first district, W. C. Hawley, Republican is far ahead of C. V. Gallaway, Democrat.

Portland, Ore., June 6.—George E. Chamberlain Democrat, has been re-elected governor of Oregon by a majority of not less than 15,000, and perhaps as much as 25,000.

DESPERADO BREAKS JAIL

Perry Sound, June 6.—A prisoner named Casacette, a French-Canadian halfbreed and a lawless character, escaped this morning from the jail here. He has for some time terrorized the settlers from Pentanguishene to Moon river. His capture was effected by Provincial Constable D. McKee, and Town Constable Julien, who safely delivered him into the jail warning the jailer of the character of the prisoner. The jailer, however permitted the prisoner too much liberty and his escape was rendered easy. The chances of his recapture are thought to be slim.

A BATTALION IN MUTINY

Odesa Barracks the Scene of Fierce

Odesa, June 8.—A serious mutiny has occurred among the soldiers of the Sappers' battalion. The entire battalion, including five officers, has revolted. There was a fierce fight in the barracks between the mutineers and the loyal troops. Twenty-three men were shot down during the fight and 65 made prisoners.

TELEPHONE SERVICE WILL BE IMPROVED

At the council meeting last night the following report of the commissioners re the telephone business was read: "June 4, 1906.—The city engineer has been enquiring into the condition of the system and has suggested certain changes in the central here which we have approved and are acting upon."

"We have installed Mr. Gladstone McDonald, who appears to be a careful and capable switchboard man. In the central, giving him full charge of the switchboards and the operators. The long distance toll instrument will be placed in the other room, removing this source of confusion and interruption from the operating room, which will then be entirely closed to the public. A trouble desk will be set up, a trouble call number given to the subscribers, and all trouble located in the central will be promptly attended to by Mr. McDonald, who will also attend to and check all toll records. Mr. McDonald will also overhaul and rearrange the switchboards so as to facilitate connections and lessen trouble."

"We trust that this will result in giving the most efficient service that the system is capable of. His salary for the present will be $18 per week. This will also relieve Mr. Stanton and permit him to give his full attention to line and subscribers' instrument trouble, and new installations, etc."

"The material necessary for the work to be done by Mr. McDonald has already been ordered. We have also placed an order for another 50 drop switchboard panel and 50 subscribers' instruments, to meet the requirements of extensions for the present, but we think it advisable to discourage as much as possible new installations of residence phones, as the best service that can be attained by the present system cannot be a completely satisfactory one and the satisfaction possible can only be in proportion to the number of services in operation. We think that if new installations were confined to business phones alone the strain upon the system will be a sufficiently severe one."

"The Strathcona system has also reached its full limit, as the switchboard there (100 drops) is full and several applications for new services are on hand, which cannot be supplied without adding a new panel. It appears to us to be highly desirable before extending the Strathcona system further that a complete understanding with that town in regard to extension of franchise should be arrived at and we would request that the council take this matter up at once and appoint a committee of its members to wait upon the town council and take the matter up with them."

ISOLATION HOSPITAL CHARGES BEING INVESTIGATED TODAY

Inquiry Began Before Judge Harvey This Morning—Dr. McGibbon on the Stand

The investigation regarding the isolation hospital was taken up in the supreme court before Judge Harvey this morning. Dr. McGibbon was the only witness examined in the forenoon session. His testimony and cross-examination taking from 10 a.m. until nearly one o'clock, when the inquiry was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

There was a little preliminary sparring by the lawyers at the opening of the inquiry. The judge read the resolution passed by the city council asking that an investigation be held. He asked if counsel was present.

Mr. Biggar stated that Dr. McGibbon, not knowing in what capacity Mr. Beck would be acting, had asked him to be present and represent him as counsel.

Mr. Beck said that he was present to represent the city, not as counsel for any of the city officials. He proposed that he should call Dr. McGibbon as witness and if the evidence he gave was such as to indicate incompetency on the part of city officials or negligence of the city, witnesses would then be called in rebuttal. Mr. Biggar objected to this proceeding on the grounds that it practically placed Dr. McGibbon in the position of prosecutor of the city officials, something that he had not contemplated.

Judge Harvey intimated that probably it would be as well to have Dr. McGibbon recite the charges first and then they would know what they were.

Mr. Biggar was quite willing to follow this course and Dr. McGibbon was called to the stand.

Dr. McGibbon was called and sworn. He said he was engaged on May 2nd to attend Bernard Asher. He had a paper in his hand and Mr. Beck asked if it was a memorandum he was referring to. Dr. McGibbon said it was a record on his own initiative. He said that there was no such thing as an official record kept by the nurses and that therefore he had arranged for his record as his own initiative.

Referring to the examination Dr. McGibbon said that he had been called to a tent on 14th street where he had found the boy seriously ill. He had him removed to the city hospital at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and had him given a hot bath. At six o'clock in the evening he returned in company with Dr. Stapleford and made a diagnosis, finding the case one of a mixed infection of scarlet fever. The boy was removed to the tent at St. Catharines. Dr. Beck asked the doctor if he had stated at the hospital that the case was one of malignant scarlet fever.

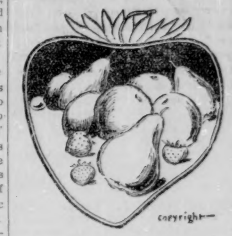

Dr. McGibbon said that he had stated that it was a case of mixed infection, and Mr. Beck was pressing the question again when Mr. Biggar objected that Mr. Beck was taking advantage of his position as counsel for the city to act as crown counsel in behalf of the medical health officer and the city council.

The examination, Mr. Biggar said, was developing into an attack on the professional reputation instead of an investigation into the conditions existing at the isolation hospital.

Mr. Beck said that the statement had been made that owing to certain conditions the boy had died. He was advised that this was not the reason why the boy had died, but that his death was due to other causes, to establish which the professional reputation of Dr. McGibbon had to be attacked.

Judge Harvey suggested that it would probably facilitate matters if Mr. Biggar

Coal Miner at Walter's Mine Did Not

Timber His Drift and Cave-In

Resulted Fatally

Strathcona, June 8.—Town Coroner

Dr. F. W. Crang held an inquest this morning on the body of the late Robert Burket, miner, who was killed yesterday afternoon in the coal mine north of Walter's mill, on the south bank of the river. The following were the jurors empaneled by the coroner:

Messrs. J. D. Foster, foreman,

Dr. J. C. Wainwright, W. H. Martin, E.

Gibbs, W. Johnston and A. G. Baslin.

They, in company with the coroner, first visited the mine to see the place of the accident, and also viewed the body in Wainwright's undertaking parlors, and then heard the evidence of the various witnesses in the town hall.

Wm. Ferguson, mine boss, was the first witness. He stated that he was on duty yesterday afternoon as usual and visited the different men at their work in the various drifts. He came around about 4 p.m., went into the east drift and saw Ordinar at work, and then went to Mr. Burket's place and did not see deceased; went to next room, where D. Evans was working, and asked him if Burket had gone out.

Mr. Evans answered that he had seen him at 3:30 taking an empty car to his place of work to load. He told Evans to come with him as something had happened, and when they got to Bur-ket's room they found that he was under the slips of coal. He then called McManus and Guato to remove the earth and at once telephoned for the coroner. When he got back they had got Mr. Burket out and found him dead.

Witness said it was the duty of miners to put in the supports under the roof. Deceased was an experienced miner and such men often take more risks than new men.

The witness was asked many questions.

David Evans was the next witness and testified as follows: I saw deceased about 3:30, as he had asked me the time then. Foreman Ferguson came to me about 4:40 and told me to come with him, as there had been a cave-in in Burket's drift. He asked me if I'd had gone home. I said I did not think he had, and was asked found he was under the fall. Ferguson then telephoned for the doctor and the rest of us took the rock off him. Guato and Mc-

Manus helped me and we got deceased out. He was lying with his head bent over on his breast, and was apparently dead when we got him out. I have mined all my life and was a timber man in the main drift. There are no printed instructions to follow as far as I know. The deceased called for timber and got them, but had not put them in. Deceased was far enough ahead in the drift for two timbers, and I think it was negligence on the part of deceased to be in the drift not put up. I have worked in the mine since last November.

R. McManus testified: I was called by Ferguson to come quickly. I followed him into Burket's drift, and found Evans rolling the rock off Burket. I asked Evans "Is he hurt?" and he replied, "He is gone." We took the body out and laid it down. We moved him about six feet to a safe place.

The man was apparently dead when taken out. I have worked in this mine since it was opened. I never got instructions to timber the roof. I do not know what the regulations are as to putting in timbers. I think it would be a good thing if there were a set of rules. I heard Mr. Ross say that he wanted the mine well timbered.

There was no delay in getting timbers. A man takes risks in not putting in timbers, but he works to more advantage when the timbers are as to the former witnesses. At the conclusion of the evidence the coroner addressed the jurors, bringing out clearly the main points of the case. The jury was cleared and the jurors after some deliberation gave the following verdict: "That the deceased, Robert Burket, came to his death by his own negligence in not putting in the supports according to the foreman's orders. We would also recommend that in the future printed regulations be put up in conspicuous places for the safety of the men."

The following is the corrected list of the Strathcona Board of Trade delegates who are chosen to represent our town at the approaching annual Association meeting to be held at Edmonton this month: Messrs. Sheppard,

Bush, Cluff, McKinnon and J. H. Macdonald.

The funeral of Miss Ethel McIntyre, daughter of Mr. Malcolm McIntyre, (H.

attendance at the funeral bears testimony to the respect in which the deceased family is held by citizens in general. Mr. McIntyre and wife have the deep sympathy of many friends and acquaintances in their sorrow.

Mr. Clark has just returned from and the young people enjoyed them-ance. Government Surveyor McCarthy he (Brathwaite) would not be deposed to by them (Meaning Merkle and Main).

On the 16th of May Merkle came to his office and told him that his wages had been cut to $2 a day, which was tantamount to a dismissal. He went out and visited the tent and found other nurses there. He found the tent in good condition and gave directions that the tent should be kept warm as the most dangerous thing in such a case was cold and damp, which would call a re-lapse and would probably prove fatal.

On May 13th he visited the tent again and found the report fairly satisfactory, the pulse being 102 to 110 from the 10th to the 13th. That evening the boy's father visited him and explained that the tent was so small that he had no room for the boy's nurse and the tent was so small that the pulse had run up to 130. The father complained that in changing the bed covers they had left the boy exposed to cold and damp and the nurse was unable to do anything but keep the boy warm. He ordered that the tent be kept dry and that the bed area be covered with gauze. He found that they had no gauze. A score on the boy's foot had been cooked by too hot and too strong solutions of bi-chloride of mercury. The wound was on the ball of the big toe, 2 inches by 1 inch wide, and the destruction of the tissue extended to the bone. He asked the nurse, who was called Mack, to prepare a foundation for the boy's foot, his idea being to find how ignorant the nurse was. The nurse's hands were filthy and covered with germs.

He told the nurse off with his dirty hands, slapped it in the hot water, splashed some bi-chloride of mercury over it and wrote it out with his hand.

The doctor asked how he judged the temperature of the mercury and he said he estimated it. Asked where he had learned "as nurse he said "in the army." The condition of the nurse's hands were such as might have caused blood poisoning in any patient.

He reprimanded the nurse for keeping the tent in such a filthy, damp condition, and gave instructions to let the fire out on the 14th.

On the 14th day of May he visited the patient twice, and on the 15th visited him twice again. He found the patient's pulse running up to 140, a case of acute arthritis developed. He prescribed a heavier stimulant to keep up his failing heart. On the evening of the 15th the boy showed signs of approaching death. Bronchitis had extended over both lungs. Mr. Merkle returned on the 15th. On the 16th the boy died, never having recovered from

IMPENDING DISASTER

The Toronto News is so disgusted with the Minister of the Interior that it denies him the title usually accorded to members of the Cabinet, and refers to him as "Mr. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior." This is a horrible condition of affairs, and if the Minister does not mind himself, the News will be getting positively rude one of these days. That would be fatal to the News. The delicate organism that is so matronly dilate could not stand the strain and the Minister should be careful lest he incites an outburst which would deprive Canadian Journalism of its prize freak.

COUNTERFEITING CANADIAN PRODUCTS

The investigation into the operations of the beef trust has disclosed the fact that Chicago packers have been labeling their products "made in Canada" in order to sell them in the British market. In so doing they have borne witness to the British preference for Canadian produce, for if there had been no such preference there would have been no reason for counterfeiting the Canadian goods. This misrepresentation works damage to the Canadian trade by increasing the supply of supposedly Canadian products, and has led to the British consumer an article which in the light of recent revelations he would not want at any price. The ultimate remedy of course rests with the Government of the United States in providing adequate inspection of the conditions of preparation and the method of labelling. The British Government, however, might help matters by enacting restrictive measures for preventing the importation of products which do not bear the Government certificate as to their quality and place of preparation.

EXPLANATORY

The Leithbridge News corrects the Bulletin's statement that no Liberal paper of consequence has attacked the Hill project by calling attention to an article opposing the enterprise published by Le Soleil, of Quebec. Continuing, the News informs us that "As for the Toronto Mail, it is notorious that that paper has been out of touch with Mr. Borden and with the Conservative party for some time. At the last Dominion election, for instance, it gave no support to Borden's railway policy."

By way of explanation the News says: "There is a certain political element which is in politics for what it can get out of it—not simply as individuals but also as corporations. That element naturally attaches itself chiefly to governments, but aims to control opposition also, and the Mail has come to represent nothing more than the effort of that element to control the policy of the Conservative party."

The Bulletin admits the oversight of Le Soleil's article and accepts the News' explanation as to the motives which govern the Mail and Empire, although we are not prepared to join in reading the chief Opposition organ out of its party.

BEET SUGAR MACHINERY FREE

Mr. Fielding has introduced a bill to admit of the free importation during the present year of "Machinery of every kind, and structural iron and steel when imported under regulations to be made by the Minister of Customs, for use in the construction and equipment of factories for the manufacture of sugar from beet root" and of "machinery and appliances of a kind not made in Canada, for use exclusively in alluvial gold mining." The bill also provides that "Subject to such regulations as the Minister of Customs deems expedient, notwithstanding anything contained in schedule A to the Customs Tariff, 1897, the duty on iron or steel railway bars or rails which have been in use in the tracks of railways in Canada, and which have been exported from Canada, and returned thereto, after being re-rolled and weighing not less than fifty-six pounds per lineal yard when re-rolled, and to be used by the railway company importing them, on their own tracks, shall be twenty-five per cent. of the cost of re-rolling the rails; provided however, that whenever the Governor General in Council is satisfied that a mill adapted to and equipped for re-rolling of such rails in substantial quantities has been established in Canada, the Governor General, by Order in Council, published in the Canada Gazette, may abolish this duty and thereupon all such rails when imported, shall be subject to such duty as the Customs Tariff, 1897, provides."

THE COLLAPSE

The Opposition assault on the North Atlantic Trading Company contract collapsed on Tuesday when the House voted down the resolution of Mr. Monk demanding that Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Immigration Commissioner in England, be reported for declining to disclose the names of the members of the company. Mr. Preston had already been exhaustively examined in committee, had answered under oath every question asked save that as to who comprised the company and declined to answer this on the ground that he had given his solemn pledge not to do so.

The only reasonable purpose the Opposition could have had in pressing for such information would be a suspicion that some Canadian Immigration official was a beneficiary of the company. But Mr. Preston had already declared under oath that neither himself, nor so far as he knew, any Canadian, official or non-official, was financially interested in the company in any manner or to any degree, directly or indirectly. Moreover, when Mr. Monk's motion came before the House, the Premier, while contending that he could not honorably make the names public, offered to provide a list of the members of the company either to Mr. Borden, to Mr. Monk, or any other member they might select.

Had the Opposition leader accepted this offer he could have determined in a moment whether or not any Canadian was interested in the company, and had he found such to be the case, he would have been in a position not only to make a specific charge against any such party or parties, but could have discredited the Immigration Commissioner for bearing false witness and have brought against the Government a charge of adopting a suspicious attitude in withholding such names or names. In short, had Mr. Borden or Mr. Monk entertained any suspicion that a Canadian official had connection with the company, they had everything to gain and nothing to lose by accepting the privilege of inspecting the membership roll. But they declined the offer and in so doing confessed that they did not want the means of ascertaining whether or not there was any foundation for the assaults they had made on the Immigration officials in the debates on this contract.

The only reasonable conclusion is that the Conservative leader and his strenuous lieutenants, have entertained no suspicion that there was any improper relations between the Immigration officials and the Trading Company, and that the insinuation of the contrary with which they have been fit to have the insinuations to the contrary have been merely a grand stand play to the country. The unpopularity of expenditures of public money to persons unknown to the public offered a ready opportunity to create suspicion against the manner and purpose of such expenditure, an opportunity which the Opposition readily seized and worked zealously to as zealously as it transpired, or the benefit of the own cause. Had they known when to call a halt they might have created public suspicion without retelling that there was no reason for such suspicion and that the creators of the suspicion did not believe any such reason to exist.

CONDITIONS IN PACKINGTOWN

Investigating Commission Report on Revolting Conditions

Washington, June 4. — Concluding the report on the conditions in the stock yards of Chicago, the commission appointed by the president declares that in "huge establishments the whole situation tends necessarily and inevitably to the moral degradation of the thousands of workers who are forced to spend their working hours under conditions unnecessary and unpardonable which are a constant menace not only to their own health but to the health of those who use the food products prepared by them."

In his message to both houses the president says: "I submit the report of James Bronson Reynolds, commissioner and Charles P. Neill, the special committee appointed to investigate the conditions in the stock yards of Chicago and ask you to report thereon. The report is preliminary in nature. I submit it to you because it shows the urgent need of immediate action upon the part of the Federal Government of all stock yards, packing houses and products so far as they enter interstate or foreign commerce."

"The conditions in the Chicago yards are revolting. It is imperative in the interests of health and decency to be radically changed. Under the existing law it is wholly impossible to secure satisfactory results. It is impossible under the laws existing that satisfactory work can be done by the bureau of animal industry. I have directed that labels be placed upon food products which state only that the carcass of the animal from which the meat was taken, was inspected at the time slaughtered. If inspection of meat products at all stages of preparation is not provided I shall order that inspection labels and certificates on canned products shall not be used hereafter. Not only are stock yards not kept reasonably clean, but the method of handling is uncleanly and dangerous to health. "The national government cannot inspect prepared meat, as the interstate commerce laws only forbid the shipment of uninspected meat to foreign countries. The avenue of interstate commerce give open traffic to diseased and spoiled meats. Law is needed to inspect and supervise from hoof to cannal product. An inspection fee should be charged. The use of poisons must be stopped. I urge the severest amendment. The report of Reynolds and Neill is substantially as follows: Every statement herein is supported by affidavits and personal observation.

At the stock yards the grooves between the bricks are filled with manure refuse and cannot be properly cleaned. They are almy and malodorous when wet. Clouds of filth are driven up as most of the pens are uncovered. The viciaducts and platforms are spongy wood.

Calves sheep and hogs die and are thrown upon the platforms. On one was counted fifteen dead hogs, and on another ten. The only excuse was expense. The interior of the building is wood and the flooring is soaked and almy. There is no sunlight or ventilation in many of the rooms. Many of the work-rooms are vault like and the air rarely changes. It is stifling with offal, entrails, rotten wood and humid atmosphere, the odors being stirred by a few electric fans. The sale and cash money work ten hours a day, standing in sawdust boxes to keep their feet dry under drippings from store-rooms above, in a temperature of 38 degrees Fahrenheit.

Meat is handled by workmen in dirty greasy aprons, trampled on by men in manured shoes. The receptacles are of rotten wood, soaked with blood and grease, and are indecently filthy. The privies for men and women are foul, and ventilate into the workrooms. There are no lavatories. Male and female workers go in each others' presence directly from the privies to prepare meats without washing their hands. Some rooms have no privies. We saw the carcass of a hog dragged along a filthy privy floor and sent uncleaned to the tables.

"Tubercularis workmen spit on the floors and drag meat on aprons. Microscopic examination of the hogs shipped to Germany shows great care. There is no examination of pork in America. Legislation should include goats, and provide inspection during all the progress of buildings, cleanliness and wholesomeness of products. Interstate and foreign commerce should forbid the use of government labels to ship uninspected products out of the state."

WINNIPEG EXHIBITION, 1906.

The prize list of the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition, which is just issued, indicates the energy, enterprise and knowledge of western conditions on the part of the management. It is an indication of the belief that the Exhibition of July 23rd to 29th next will be the most successful in the country's history. Many and valuable additions have been made in the classes requiring incentive, and the prizes in many other classes have been increased. The Clydesdale Horse Society of Great Britain will give two gold medals, as will also the Shire Horse Society of London, England, for the classes in which they are particularly interested. The additional and increased prizes as to horses, cattle and swine, are a marked feature of the well-arranged book which makes up the prize list.

A Dog Show will be an interesting and new feature in the coming Exhibition, a feature strongly appealing to the interests of Western Canadians.

Gravel in sufficient quantities will cover the live stock rings and the quarters reserved for heavy machinery, obviating any unpleasantness in any sort of weather.

With the energy and trained experience of the president, Mr. G. H. Greig, and the manager, Dr. A. W. Bell, and the evident desire of the directorate to make the coming exhibition in harmony with the importance of the Canadian west in the eyes of the world, it is assured that the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition of July 23-28 will rival in varied interest the great exhibitions of the east.

JOLY LEAVES FOR THE EAST

Victoria, June 6.—Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, retiring lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, bid farewell to Victoria last evening, leaving at 8 o'clock by the Dominion Government steamer Quadra, on his way to his old home in Quebec. Owing to Sir Henri's indifferent health, the leave taking was very quiet but none the less heartily on the part of the citizens of the capital.

METHODISTS RESOLUTE

Smith Falls, June 6.—At yesterday's meeting of the Montreal Methodist conference a memorial passed in favor of appointing a minister in every conference of the church to look after educational work, devoting their whole time to it. The memorial was signed by the conference in favor of the secretary of education.

THE PORK SITUATION

Editor Bulletin:

Dear Sir, in reading your issue of yesterday, June 8th, under the heading "Western Canada's Chance," I states that there is an unconfirmed rumor that the National Packing Co. is to start a plant in Alberta, also an interview with P. Burns regarding the same. I notice where he says they are using everything available and quotes pork in particular. Paddy may be right as far as that goes at present but if Paddy has forgotten two years ago last winter, the farmers have not.
At that time Paddy didn't give seven cents, but it was almost impossible to get them off your hands at all to Paddy or anyone else, when the prices were down to three and three-quarter cents and three and one-half cents. At that price the hog is a dead loss so farmers quit raising hogs and turned to raising wheat (of which I speak hereafter). Three years ago showed what this country could do in the matter of raising hogs. Let a plant be established in Alberta where pork will be cured into bacon as it should be and sent out of the country to the British market or else where so as to cause no glut here. If that is done and fair prices given, or live and let live prices, the plant and not be idle a day in the year. This is naturally a hog country; practically no diseases in hogs here.

Another barrier comes up often in the way of a plant being started is the poor grade of hogs we are raising at the present time, but this would take only about two years to overcome when gone about in the right way. Good communities as these are finished before the eyes of the intending investor and sometimes have the desired effect to discourage him.

What we want is a constant market.
Who would govern in price by the supply and demand, with no fear of glutting. Then we can go ahead and raise hogs, and not till them. But if we are to depend on the market of British Columbia, Yukon or north of it, we will look a failure. The Saskatchewan Valley is long, and is a long way out by rail. When we have to ship our pigs out we will see what it means, and we are facing that problem now; we will find it will pay better to ship it in bacon and beef, and North Alberta is the natural home of them both.

Sunlight way. Follow directions.

SUNLIGHT WAY OF WASHING

First, put the water in a tub or a pail, and add a small amount of Sunlight Soap. Then add the water, and stir it up with your hands.
This makes a rich lather, wash them. Then rinse the clothes in clean water, and they will be white

and bright, and don't need any more soap.

Then, to save for every day, use the Sunlight Soap. It is the best soap for every use. It is the only soap that makes a rich lather, and the dirt will drop out of the clothes as you wash them. Then rinse the clothes in clean water,
and they will be white
and bright, and don't
need any more soap.

BEWARE OF "WOODEN NUTMEGS."

THIS is an age of imitations!
The symbol of the period should be the "Wooden Nutmeg."

Every sincerely good and reliable article of commerce has today a score of deceptive substitutes peaching upon its market.
And, if the substitutes were as good as the originals they would not need to imitate the outward appearance of these originals, but could create a market of their own, on merit.

The Maker of a sound, and reliable article makes it sound and reliable so as to deserve, and hold, a future market.

The Maker of a substitute for that article makes it for present profit only—to trade upon the goodness of the original.

He has nothing at stake for the future, and his policy is to give you the shell without the kernel—the appearance without the value.

Some Shoe Retailers prefer selling "long-profit" shoes to selling "The Slater Shoe" which is price-controlled by the Makers.

But, don't forget that the Slater Shoe is priced by the Makers to prevent your being over-charged when you buy them.

THE METROPOLIS OF ALBERTA
(From "Canada")

More than a century ago, when George III. had yet twenty-five years to reign, when the eyes of all Europe were turned towards the rising power of that remarkable product of the French Revolution, Napoleon Bonaparte, and when England herself was preparing to withstand a shock, from which she eventually emerged triumphant, little attention could be paid to those parts of the British Empire which lay in the pathless wildernesses of Canada far from the seaboard. So meagre indeed were the means of communication that tidings of these outposts of civilization and empire could only reach people at home from the mouths of returned traders, or from letters occasionally dispatched across the Atlantic. But these traders were doing a work which, though less resplendent in mighty deeds of valor, than the exploits of soldier or sailor, have no less been instrumental in placing the British Empire on the proud pedestal which she occupies to-day.

It was about this time - in 1795, to be precise - that traders of the Hudson Bay Company, overcoming the vagaries of climate and the awful enmity of the Red Indians, arrived at a spot on the North Saskatchewan River and there founded a trading station, the headquarters of which they named the Edmonton House. Here, under these primitive conditions, the head of the party, or factor, as he was termed, held sway over a territory equal, perhaps, in area to any European state or kingdom, Russia alone excepted, with unquestioned absolutism. And this lone fort away in the vast Northwest Territories was the beginning of the now flourishing city of Edmonton, the future of which is regarded with so much hope. It is a high compliment to the commercial instinct and wisdom of these early traders that the first points chosen by them for locations for trade have in after generations been acclaimed by more important men as fit centres for trade and government.

According to tradition, the first Fort Edmonton was built as a competitor to Fort Augustus, a station for similar purposes established by the Northwest Trading Company in 1788. Tradition also speaks of another trading post in the vicinity founded by the X. L. Trading Company. Thus the rival merchants of more than a century past were united as to the commercial advantages of Edmonton as a centre of communication. The railways of today bear witness to the sagacity of these early traders, for they merely follow the blazed roads and moccasin-trails of the older days.

From the midst of the past one may get glimpses of the life in these primitive settlements; of the struggles between the rival Indian tribes; of the war waged by these painted warriors on the intruding white man - warfare which abounds with tales of blood-curdling atrocities; of the feuds between the rival traders, often ending in bloodshed; of the advent of the missionary, his endeavors, trials, failures, and successes; of the coming of the hardy, undisciplined miner in his search for gold on the sand-bars of the Saskatchewan; and, later, of the advent of the more domesticated agriculturist, the first to discern in the fecundity of the soil a land on which to settle, to grow rich and to bring up his children. Out of all these heterogeneous beginnings has the present capital of the new Province of Alberta sprung to its present prominence.

Edmonton has been described as the "old and new" city of the west. Contradictory in terms as this may be, the statement is in every way correct. Reckoned from its old trading station days, Edmonton is, indeed, ancient among cities, as age in that part of the world goes; but, taking her more modern development under modern auspices, she is almost the latest of the moderns. The rate of her development is one of the wonders of the west. Twenty-five years ago the town was an irregular fringe of log houses, a few frame stores, and the "Big House" or official residence of the late Hon. Richard Hardisty, chief factor of the Hudson Bay Company. Till 1891 the town progressed in quite an ordinary manner, when the coming of the Calgary & Edmonton Railway brought increased settlement. In addition, the mining development of the Kootenay district in 1896 and the overland rush to the Klondike two years later, had a good effect commercially upon the place. It is, however, but during the last eighteen months that the boom proper has set in at Edmonton. Many causes contribute towards the town's rapid growth in which, in a little more than a live month, it has almost doubled its population and fairly started on the road to fame which should enable it to almost rival Winnipeg as the metropolis of the West. The town's position and the natural resources of the surrounding thousands of square miles must, of course, be regarded as the chief contributors to its prosperity. Perhaps in the whole of Canada there is no district endowed with so many forms of natural wealth. There are limitless areas of arable land, able to produce the finest wheat, roots, cereals and flax, and capable of feeding countless numbers of horses and cattle, which should themselves supply abundant raw material for manufacturers. In addition, the town itself stands on an enormous coal field, the extent of which is at present unknown; while on the banks of the Athabasca River are petroleum fields which bid fair to rival many of those of the United States. East of the Athabasca River are salt mines, where the trappers and hunters now mine salt for their own use from seams that would supply salt for the whole world. Hunters and voyagers in days past brought tales of precious metals to be found in the North that have caused a smile of incredulity in those who have not yet comprehended the mineral wealth of the Dominion. Yet samples of galena, gold, copper, lead, zinc, iron and silver are to be seen in the windows of almost every real estate agent in Edmonton, and these, be it remembered, have been picked up by travellers in Northern Alberta. The timber resources of the district of which Edmonton is the head are as yet more apparent than the mineral resources, but so far they are undeveloped. There are a few scattered locations along the banks of the Saskatchewan, but the millions of spruce and pine to the north are as yet even unexplored. With the Canadian Northern Railway now running into the place, and the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Pacific intending to enter the city, it is no wonder that during the last twelve months there has been an almost unprecedented rush to acquire property in the district. Above all, with the selection of Edmonton as the capital of the newly-formed Province of Alberta, official as well as commercial dignity is given to the city.

In the surrounding districts the influx of population is no less than entering the city itself. New houses are building everywhere, and new farms are dotted all over the country. Where a year ago the coyote was the only denizen of miles of willow and waving grass, there now works the industrious farmer and his emigrant helpers on the huge stretches of land that have no equal in the world. Hundreds of new farms are being taken up. During the month of March alone 90,399 acres of land were given to settlers in the Edmonton district alone. The number of homesteads taken up was 587, which means an addition of nearly 2900 people to the population, without taking account of those who have settled on railroad or private company land. The city, which is to have the supplying of 75 per cent. of these farms and their workers, has a population which is approaching 10,000 souls. Thirteen banks have already opened their doors, and none are complaining of business; stores have doubled; the newspapers are trebling their plants; an electric street railway is being organized; flour and other cereal companies are forming. The market for manufactures is now large, and soon it will be enormous; while, with the opening of spring, the building trade is at high pressure.

In spite, however, of the rush of business, the intellectual and spiritual training of the population is not neglected. The growth of the school population has been so rapid that it has become necessary to erect a new school, but these already in existence would do credit to any city in Canada. Much the same is to be noticed with regard to the churches. The Church of England, Presbyterian and Methodist congregations have each already two places of worship, and the Baptists, too, have recently dedicated an imposing new church.

The climate at Edmonton is, if anything, better than that of Eastern Canada. It is colder in the winter, but the air is dry, and the keenness of the atmosphere is scarcely felt. Besides, the winter practically lasts only during the months of January and February, and pleasant, warm weather often continues until Christmas. Snow generally disappears towards the end of February, and is scarcely seen afterwards. As showing the mildness of the atmosphere it may be interesting to note that a political meeting was held in the open air on November 8th last, a circumstance which would be attended with considerable discomfort in England. Much may yet be written of the growth and development of the capital of Alberta, but until time lends us perspective to view the city's increase under the more favorable circumstances, it would be difficult to estimate the full significance of its sudden rise to prominence. With the development of all the vast resources which, as we have indicated, surround the youthful city, Edmonton will have grown out of its knowledge in a short twelve months or so. Cities with the chances that abound in Alberta's capital are those that make history, and to Edmonton we shall look for her chapter in the annals of the British Empire.

DOMINION CONCERT COMPANY

The people of Edmonton are to have a treat in the concert line in the shape of the Dominion Concert Company, who are billed to appear in the rink opera house June 12th and 13th. The company consists of Miss Gertrude White, soprano, Miss Badgley, elocutionist, Miss Rena Mullins, pianist and accompanist, Mr. Joe Leonard, violinist, and Mr. W. E. Hanibal, entertainer. The company has met with great success in their tour in the West, and the papers along the line speak very highly of them.

WANT FRANCHISE FROM STRATHCONA.

At the city council meeting last night it was pointed out that the city's telephone franchise in Strathcona had expired and that the Edmonton city lines were operating in that town only on sufferance. On motion it was resolved that the telephone and light committee and the commissioners be a committee to interview the Strathcona council with a view to securing an extension of the franchise.

It was also resolved that the commissioners should open negotiations with the provincial Government with a view to disposing of the instruments and switches now in use in Edmonton when the same is substituted by the automatic.

Ald. Manson pointed out that if the provincial government was going to build farmers lines it would have use for the 500 phones now being used here.

RE-NUMBERING JASPER AVENUE

Ald. Fieard made a motion last night at the council meeting, that Jasper avenue be re-numbered, commencing at First street and numbering east and west.

The motion was for the purpose of authorizing the city engineer's proposition to have everything numbered from First street east and west and from the river north. The numbering of Jasper had already been done before Engineer Keeley arrived and was arranged to commence at Boundary avenue and number westward. The engineer took up the numbering at this point and numbered all the other streets either way from First. This work has already been done, and Jasper will now be changed in conformity.

Numbering north and south the numbering will start from the farther south point on the river, and all parallel blocks going north will bear similar numbers. Thus Jasper will be at the north end of the six hundred block on every street from First to Twenty-first, and every number in the Hudson's Bay survey will be parallel with every corresponding number, either east and west or north and south. Owing to the fact that the east end is not laid out regularly the same system cannot be followed out in that part of the town but even there the numbers will be fairly uniform.

BEER WAS FOR MASONIC RITE

Sam Sing, keeper of the Victoria restaurant, who was last night the Celestial quartette to escape the rigors of the liquor license law as a result of last Monday's raid, all the others paying $50 and up on out or two charges.

Sam told the court that he was a Mason, and that the beer found in the Victoria restaurant was merely a couple of dozen bottles left over from a grand Masonic banquet held in the city a few evenings previous to celebrate the installation of a lodge in Edmonton. To corroborate the story Mim Yuen, grand master of the Chee King lodge of Chinese Masons went on the stand to relate that he was the organizer who gathered in the charter members and that Sam Sing was the caterer. In the face of such evidence, sworn to on the sacred ashes of the paper oath, Magistrate Wade could not do less than let Sing off with the costs, a matter of $14.70. Before withdrawing Sam Sing made obsequious to the magistrate by placing three lithographed parchments on the table before him, each one bearing in the corner the mystic symbol V and on the reverse side the words "Canadian Bank of Commerce." The chief of police recognized the high sign and as a counter sign handed Sing back 30 cents.
